Local Firemen Attend Reading's 175th Anniversary Celebration

Annual State Firemen's Association Convention Being Staged in That Town This Week. Pageants Depict Founding of Town, and Notable Characters in its History.

Scores of firemen, members of the Gettysburg Fire Company, left town this morning for Reading where they will attend the annual State Firemen's Association Convention, being held there coincident with the celebration of the 175th anniversary of the founding of the town of Reading.

A number of the firemen arrived in that up-State town Monday, in order to be present at all of the celebrations which got under way Monday night with colorful pageant depicting the history of Reading and Berks county.

The first scenes were produced with elaborate lighting and costume effects, and employed 2,000 persons to produce. A chorus of 350 voices is used, as well as numerous orchestras and bands.

While visitors were especially numerous at the first performance Monday night, it is expected that the audience set for tonight will be even greater, as the State Firemen are scheduled to be the special guests at the pageant.

On Wednesday night it is expected that Governor Pinchot, Mayor Moore of Philadelphia, and executives of a number of other communities in the State will be present.

The pageant Monday night developed the fact that Reading is celebrating a number of anniversaries. The main one is the 175th anniversary of the first settlement of the town. It is also, however, the 140th anniversary of its incorporation as a borough, and the 150th anniversary of its oldest fire company, an organization which is still active, and which includes in its membership the present head of the fire department of the town, Chief John Neithammer.

One hundred and seventy-five years after the first settlers arrived on the present site of the town and built their log cabins, the pageant showed the march of history of Berks county.

The greatest demonstration of the whole affair was the procession with its representatives of those who helped to make the city and county possible. In this procession, the aim of Americanism was the keynote.

The "Builders of Berks" were shown to be the Lenni-Lenape Indians, the Swedes, who set up the first settlement, the Huguenots from France, who arrived between 1704 and 1710; the Friends, mostly English, who came between 1713 and 1720; the Germans, who came in 1723; the Swiss, who arrived in 1728; the Welsh in 1732; then in order, the Poles, Italians, Russians, Greeks, Ukrainians, Slovaks, Hungarians and Lithuanians, after 1870. In the group of builders were also heroes of the late World War.

One of the notable features of the celebration in Reading is the fact that many of the figures in the pageant are direct descendants, or members of the same family, of the persons whose lives they depicted. An example was given of the Lincoln family, which originated in Reading, the part of Abraham Lincoln being taken by a third cousin of the martyred president, Richard G. Lincoln. They had a common grandfather, Mordecai Lincoln, of Exeter township, in Berks county.

RAILROAD MEN ASK WAR WAGES

Western Maryland Engineers and Firemen Join Four Big Brotherhoods.

Action taken by chairmen of various locals over the Western Maryland Railroad at a meeting in Hagerstown last week whereby a new working agreement between the Western Maryland and the engineers and firemen asking an increase in wages was presented to Maxwell C. Byers, president of the system, is only part of a movement now in full swing by the four railroad transportation brotherhoods to regain the wages in effect on the various railroads of the United States in 1920.

What the brotherhoods are asking is in effect an increase of approximately 12 1/2 per cent over the present wage scale. The engineers joined with the firemen, trainmen and conductors Monday. In addition to the above demand the engineers are seeking an $8.00 a day minimum pay. So far as is known this is the first time that a minimum daily rate of pay has been demanded by the transportation brotherhoods.

Through a circular instructions were sent to the general committees of chairmen and secretaries-treasurers of all general committees of adjustment of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers to present thirty-day notices of the intentions of the brotherhood members to amend schedules of pay to railroads where the contract has expired.

The engineers' agreement with the Western Maryland ended Monday at midnight. The revised agreement, drawn at the meeting at Hagerstown which ended Sunday, was to have been presented to Mr. Byers in Baltimore Monday night. Mr. Byers refused to talk to newspaper men who sought (Continued on second page.)

POST IN FAVOR OF NEW AMENDMENT

If Passed In November Statute Will Abolish Taxes on Military Organizations' Property.

Attention of the Albert J. Lentz American Legion Post, No. 202, was called at a regular meeting on Monday evening to an amendment to the State constitution which will come before the voters of Pennsylvania in November for approval. The amendment provides for exemption from taxation of all property, real and personal, owned by veteran organizations such as the American Legion, Grand Army of the Republic, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the United Spanish War Veterans.

The local post's membership by resolution unanimously passed went on record as favoring the amendment and each Legionnaire pledged himself to vote "yes" on the amendment. The State bonus question will not be before the voters until the general election next year.

Matters of major importance were transacted at the regular meeting, which was largely attended. Commander William G. Weaver was in the chair.

From the list of eligible candidates for the position as caretaker of the post home, succeeding Edwin D. Ross, whose resignation takes effect October 17, Frank J. Stokes was elected to the position. He expects to move into the home on October 15.

The Legion's plans for conducting the sole refreshment concession at the Playground on October 18, the date of the Adams County Farm Products Show, are rapidly taking form. The Chamber of Commerce has consented to give the Legion the sole right to sell all kinds of refreshments on the grounds that day and the proposition bids fair to increase the post's finances, it is pointed out.

A committee consisting of James Howe, chairman, with Andrew Florence, Harry Lackner, Ralph Becker, Robert Hand and Leroy Fissel, members, has been appointed and will have charge of the details in connection (Continued on Third Page)

PLANS FOR FARM SHOW HERE MADE

Cash Prizes To Be Awarded Exhibitors In Gettysburg Event October 18.

COMMITTEES ARE ACTIVE

Tents Have Already Arrived; Canvass of Merchants to Be Made by Committee Wednesday.

Detailed arrangements to make Farmers' Day in Gettysburg this year, to be held at the Playground, Thursday, October 18, bigger and better in every respect than last year were outlined at a meeting of committees of the Chamber of Commerce at the Gettysburg Hotel Monday evening.

All but a few of the members of the various committees attended the meeting and enthusiasm was in evidence on every hand.

"Farmers' Day was a success last year and we can make it a greater event this year if the committees will get busy," is the way Samuel G. Spangler launched the committee meeting, and the committeemen immediately accepted his challenge.

"Everybody must pull together for the common cause and make this event one worth while for exhibitors and visitors without thought of direct personal gain," C. W. Cook, president of the Chamber of Commerce and active in making arrangements for the event, asserted, and, with that thought uppermost, general plans were outlined by the committee chairman.

To Give Cash Prizes

Cash prizes and merchandise from Gettysburg's stores will be given as prizes this year instead of ribbons and they are to be of sufficient value to provide some special inducement to farmers, fruit growers and live stock raisers to bring in their exhibits and to supplement their natural pride of possession. The prizes are to be given to the winners on the grounds and they will be displayed in a special tent before being awarded.

The playground, in fact, will be a myriad of tents for the occasion. A number of large tents have already been obtained from the state arsenal at Harrisburg for the occasion.

To Solicit Merchants

The committee on premiums and awards, comprising William G. Weaver, chairman; Ivan G. Naugle, David Blocher and M. K. Eckert, will begin canvassing the merchants Wednesday morning for prizes for the exhibits. The prizes will be given according to a schedule prepared by the county farm agent, R. E. Underwood, and will require both merchandise and cash. Several cups will be awarded where trophies of that nature are more desirable to the exhibitor.

The lot will be laid off by S. Miley Miller, civil engineer, and Major Nixon will be requested to rally his war college for the erection of the tents in which they are schooled. Bert Tipton will be in charge of the poultry show and Frank Waybright will look after the exhibition of swine.

"GO EAST" IS SLOGAN

OF WESTERN FARMERS

One Calls at Capitol For Information on Pennsylvania Farms For Iowa Friends.

Adams county may shortly be the scene of activity of western farmers, whose latest slogan of "Go East" has already been shown in this State. An influx of western farmers in this county might result in an exchange with agriculturalists here who desire to obey the common command of the last century, "Go West, Young Man."

A. R. Kephart, owner of a knife factory in Des Moines, Iowa, who recently purchased a 13-acre farm, near Middletown, called at the State Department of Agriculture in Harrisburg, Monday, according to reports received here.

He said he wanted as much information on Pennsylvania agricultural conditions as possible, not only for himself, but also for eight other Iowa farmers, who he said are "sold" on the advantages of Eastern farmers, nearness to big markets, lower land values and consequent higher returns on the farm products.

Only a Few Expense Accounts in Recent Primary Are Filed

Three of the Candidates Who Have Made Returns Spent More Than $50; G. Harry Roth, Successful Republican Candidate For Prothonotary, is First to File.

Although Wednesday is the last day on which candidates for county, township and municipal offices at the recent primary election can file expense accounts with J. Robert Hartman, clerk of the courts, comparatively few had done so up to noon today.

Of the possibly one hundred successful and unsuccessful candidates for offices in Adams county at the recent municipal primary, only twelve have filed expense accounts.

Of his number, three candidates spent over $50. They are: Charles Taughinbaugh, Democratic candidate for the office of Register and Recorder; G. D. Morrison, Democratic candidate for the office of county sheriff, and Harry J. Troxell, Democratic candidate for county treasurer. All three secured the nomination.

None of these candidates received money from outside sources, according to the itemized returns made to Clerk Hartman. Items for which money was spent include advertising, transportation, cards, posters and automobile hire.

G. Harry Roth, successful Republican candidate to succeed himself as Prothonotary, was the first candidate to file his expense account, which shows less than $50 was spent in securing the nomination.

C. K. Yeager, successful Republican candidate for the nomination of justice of the peace of New Oxford borough, is the only municipal candidate to have filed his expense account to date. His account shows he spent less than $50.

Other candidates who have filed expense accounts of expenditures less than $50 are John W. Black, Republican, Clerk of the Courts; John A. Stambaugh, Democrat, Director of the Poor; George M. Deatrick, Republican, County Auditor; Clarence C. Smith, Republican, County Treasurer; O. G. Baughman, Democrat, Prothonotary; C. W. Stoner, Democrat, County Auditor, and J. Laurie Hill, Republican, County Commissioner.

Where a candidate spent no money in the primary campaign no return need be filed.

OKLA. ELECTION IN FULL SWING

Governor's Threat Against Populace Enforced In Only One County.

(By Associated Press.)

Oklahoma City, Oct. 2.—Oklahoma's special election which will decide whether the legislature shall meet to consider impeachment charges against Governor Walton swung into full movement early today. Reports indicated that the polls were opened throughout the state with the exception of four full counties and parts of a fifth. Indications were that an unusually heavy vote was being cast. Johnson county appeared to be the only county where the threat of Governor Walton to close the polls by force of arms had been carried out. There 100 armed state police held possession of election supplies and would not permit them to be removed from the office of the county election board. From every point in the state the reports indicated that the election was proceeding quietly.

CLERGY DEMANDS DRY SHAKE-UP

Methodists Quote Philadelphia Editorials in Circulars To Temperance Board.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Republication of the editorials in The North American on enforcement of the prohibition law and the manner in which this work is obstructed by Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair and the treasury department has been made by the board of temperance and prohibition of the Methodist Church, for circulation among its members.

The editorials are used to present to their readers the exact conditions that obtain in prohibition enforcement, as showing the need for a sweeping change in methods and organization.

The board says in this connection: "Commissioner of Prohibition Haynes recently went to Ohio to recover from a slight physical trouble.

"Immediately on his return one of the influential papers of Washington carried a story stating that Mr. Haynes' resignation was desired and charging him with having been 'factual' in the administration of his office and having crippled 'legitimate' business.

"To the innocent bystander it appeared that when Mr. Haynes returned from Ohio he had mighty little influence with some of his subordinates and department heads. These men, it appeared, seemed to consider that they owed their loyalty to certain persons higher up."

Then follows a North American editorial.

"This statement of the case," says the Methodist board, "is that of the Philadelphia North American. It is not ours. However, it is only fair to say that The North American has done public service in opening discussion of a situation that must be discussed."

Italy has mobilized 40,000 more men. Perhaps instead of red tape they now use spaghetti in Italy.

GERMAN REVOLT IS CRUSHED OUT

Federal Force Surrounds Reactionary Rebels at Kustrin. Censorship is Laid.

ARREST MANY LEADERS

Socialists Desert Cabinet For Alleged Weakness Toward Bavarian Policy; Also Oppose Reforms.

Berlin, Oct. 2.—A revolutionary movement originated by the Nationalist organizations in the city of Kustrin (50 miles east of Berlin, has been put down by the Government troops, says a communique issued by the Minister of Defense Monday night.

The Nationalists attempted to disarm the garrison, but the commander of the Reichswehr troops, by energetic action, was speedily master of the situation, the communique says. The Reichswehr garrison forced its way into the town, surrounded the rebels in the arsenal and arrested several of their leaders.

Reinforcements called.

Reinforcements had been summoned from neighboring centers, but the situation now is such that they will not be needed. Minister of Defense Gessler has imposed a censorship on military news.

(Kustrin is a fortress city of about 20,000 inhabitants in the province of Brandenburg, Prussia. It is known principally for its brassware factories).

The Stresemann Government now faces a parliamentary crisis. The socialists, political circles say, will withdraw from the Government as a protest against the alleged feebleness in dealing with the situation in Bavaria. In the event, it is said, Herr Stresemann will retain the Chancellorship and form a purely bourgeois cabinet.

Oppose Internal Reforms

Indignation has been growing in the ranks of the Socialists over the Bavarian discrimination against their party, and as a result of this the disruption of the present four-party Reichstag coalition is viewed as a certainty of the early future.

The Socialists also are opposed to Chancellor Stresemann's program for internal reforms, which involves reduction of the number of civil service employees and a modification of the eight-hour law which will enable the workers to put in overtime.

The Socialists will be succeeded in the Cabinet by at least one member from the German Nationalist party, who probably will be given the portfolio of Food Controller.

Claim Separatist Defeat.

Sunday's sanguinary occurrences in Dusseldorf have provoked the bitter resentment of all classes of the population of the Ruhr, who are convinced that the Separatists selected that city for their rally only because they were assured of the armed protection of the French garrison and because Dusseldorf was the headquarters for the occupying powers it is asserted in Dusseldorf advices from German sources Monday.

It is believed in official circles in Berlin that, despite the fatalities which accompanied Sunday's demonstration, a decisive defeat was suffered by the Separatists, in that they failed to make a formal proclamation of a Rhineland Republic.

City Officials Arrested

Dusseldorf, Oct. 2.—The French occupation authorities arrested four city officials and 12 members of the German security police on Monday afternoon for alleged responsibility for Sunday's disorders in which 10 persons were killed and more than 200 seriously wounded.

The officials arrested were President Roddetz, Chief of Police Haas, Police Inspector Hoffner and Commissioner of Criminal Police Volkmann. In addition some 50 members of the security police are being held in their barracks pending an investigation into the beginning of the affairs.

Everything now is quiet and no further repercussions from Sunday's rioting are expected.

JAPAN DEATH TOLL PUT AT 225,000

American Red Cross Estimates 450,000 Were Injured In Quake.

Tokio, Oct. 2.—American Red Cross officials engaged in relief work here Monday estimated 225,000 persons were killed, approximately 450,000 injured and about 2,000,000 made wholly or partially destitute in Tokio, Yokohama and vicinity by the earthquake. High praise was given to Japanese officials for their cooperation.

Severe earthquakes shook Taito, Formosa, Saturday, destroying many houses, according to official reports received in Tokio. It is feared the loss of life was heavy. The shocks were continuing when the last report was sent out.

Quakes On Hondo Island

There were severe shocks around Shizuoka, on Hondo Island, about 80 miles southwest of Tokio, Sunday. The most severe was at about 3:30 p. m.

There are still 113 permanently foreign residents in Yokohama, including 43 Chinese, 21 Americans, 20 British and 13 Germans. Some of these have Japanese families. Many bodies are known to be still under the debris in Yokohama. Temporary buildings are being built in the foreign section and rapid progress is being made in clearing away wreckage and in recovering bodies.

Relief Officials Criticized

Dissatisfaction with the manner in which the Japanese committee of business men is handling the distribution of relief supplies is being expressed by the vernacular newspapers.

A considerable amount of provisions supplied by the Japanese themselves is declared to be spoiling at Shibura because of lack of transportation facilities for their distribution to the disaster victims. Supplies sent to Japan from the United States on the transport Somme now are arriving in Tokio.

Japanese Embassy Figures

Washington, Oct. 2.—An official dispatch from Tokio to the Japanese Embassy Monday places the number of known dead in the earthquake zone at 163,000, the injured at 125,000 and the missing at 235,000. The number of persons who have left Tokio is 1,068,000.

OKLA. ELECTION IS CARRIED OUT

Walton Denies Plan To Use Troops To Close Polls Today.

CALLS ON ALL POPULACE

Executive Makes General Appeal To Citizens of State to Preserve Peace After Reconstructing Board.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 2.—Military forces of the State will not interfere with today's special election, Governor Walton declared in a formal statement early Monday night.

The Governor denied the statement attributed to him Sunday that the entire National Guard would be mobilized to prevent the election. He called upon all citizens of the State to preserve the peace today.

Governor's Statement

The statement addressed to "the people of the State of Oklahoma and all peace officers of the State" follows:

It has come to my notice that rumor is now being circulated that I will interfere by means of the military to prevent or obstruct the pretended election advertised to take place tomorrow, October 2, 1923.

This is to notify you that the military forces will not intervene, in this pretended election, and I hereby request all citizens of the State to preserve the peace and good order.

J. C. Walton, Governor.

Restraint Order Granted

The Governor issued his statement after a restraining order enjoining all military and civil State officers from attempting to remove from office any members of the Oklahoma County Election Board had been granted by Judge George W. Clark in State District Court.

Representatives of Governor Walton were further enjoined from "excluding the members of the board from exercising the functions of their office" and from "threatening, intimidating or displaying force in the presence of or against the members of the board, or interfering in any way whatsoever in their performance of duty with respect to the election."

Interference Barred

The injunction also barred them from "destroying ballots or supplies, from going in or about the polling places," and from "interfering with any voter at any of the polls."

Earlier in the day Governor Walton reconstituted the State Election Board, and orders issued by the new board went out at once by telegraph to all county boards to halt the special State election for today.

W. C. McAllister, secretary of the board, is the only elective member. The other two are appointive and give the Governor control over its actions.

Removes One Member

The Governor filed with the Secretary of State an executive order removing John P. Logan, chairman of the board, and naming in his place Ira Mitchell. C. W. Kelley, Republican member of the board, retained his position, but was understood to have assured the Executive he would support him in the board's conduct of the election plans.

The removal order was dated April 25, 1923, and for this reason R. A. Sneed, Secretary of State, refused to accept it until he had obtained an official opinion as to its validity from George F. Short, State Attorney-General.

The new board, however, did not wait for the opinion before calling off the election.

Refuses To Obey Order

J. K. Wright, County Attorney of Oklahoma county, holding in his hand a telegram from the Governor instructing him to prevent the election, said:

"I cannot obey this under my oath."

TWISTED TELEPHONE CORD CAUSES TROUBLE

The most common cause of telephone trouble is the twisted telephone cord.

Many people have the mistaken idea that there is but one wire inside the insulation. As a matter of fact, the telephone cord is composed of many tiny copperwires made up into a single strand. A strand of small wires has been found to be much more satisfactory for the transmission of speech than a single wire would be.

It is a common occurrence for the telephone cord to become twisted. If the twists and knarls are not removed from the cord, the small wires will eventually break. Each time one of these wires breaks means that the efficiency of the telephone cord is impaired, and if the time should come that all of the wires become broken then the entire cord would be worthless and service from that telephone cut off until the cord would be replaced.

The knots and twists should be removed from the cord by untwisting. Jerking and pulling to straighten the cord oftentimes causes loose connections, and that puts your telephone out of service until a repairman can come out and repair the damage.

concession committee, announced that arrangements were being made to give the food and soft drink concession to the Gettysburg American Legion post, with a percentage of the gross receipts to be given to the Farmers' Day committee toward the general expenses. He also stated that most of the exhibitors of the South Mountain Fair at Arendtsville recently had signified their intention to exhibit at the fair here.

The Gettysburg Band and the Loysville Orphan Home Band will be on hand for concerts and other bands throughout the county will be invited to attend and probably invited to participate in a contest.

Professor Walter D. Reynolds, principal and athletic coach at the High School, has agreed to arrange a football game for the occasion on the High School gridiron at the playground and the Gettysburg firemen will be requested to hold a block dance on the square in the evening for the entertainment of the visitors. Other entertainment features will be arranged, it was announced by John Brehm, chairman of that committee.

Rain insurance of $600 was authorized. The Chamber of Commerce will receive that amount if one-tenth of an inch of rain falls between 8 and 11 in the morning and 1 and 3 in the afternoon. The committee had the privilege of selecting any five hours during the day. In case of rain, the event will be held the following day.

Judges From State College

The state agriculture department will have a large exhibit and experts along the various lines from State College will judge the exhibits and award the prizes.

Under the plans mapped out at the general committee meeting, the expenses of Farmers' Day this year will not exceed more than half of the amount expended last year, it is stated.

with the erection of the stand and its operation, but Commander Weaver expressed the hope that all Legion members would lend a hand on that day so as to make the receipts as large as possible. A special meeting of this committee, with members of the post interested in the proposition, will be held next Tuesday evening in the post home to complete arrangements.

J. Frank Hartman, a member of the Chamber of Commerce, was given a rising vote of thanks for his efforts in securing this exclusive privilege for the post.

The post was the recipient of an invitation from the Harold Bair post, No. 14, of Hanover, to participate in exercises in connection with the dedication of the Hanover post's $40,000 home and gymnasium on November 12. No action was taken, since it will be on that day that the local post will celebrate Armistice Day.

Hereafter, the Albert Lentz post will follow the regulation manual of ceremonies for conducting its meetings, as a result of action to that effect taken Monday evening. The manual provides for the dramatization of a post meeting, and also outlines the ceremonies of initiation, of the burial of deceased members and of the celebration of the various military holidays.

Producing Good Quality of Hay

Sooner Timothy Is Cut After Coming Into Full Bloom
the Better the Crop.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Don't let timothy hay stand too long before cutting, advises the United States Department of Agriculture. Only a small percentage of timothy hay marketed each year grades No. 1, statistics show, but the department's hay grading specialists have found that a large part of the timothy hay which has been grading No. 2 and No. 3 timothy would have been No. 1 had it been cut at an earlier stage of maturity, provided the method of curing and weather conditions were favorable for producing a good quality of hay.

Color Determines Grade.

Under the United States timothy grades, which have been recommended recently by the Department of Agriculture, color alone determines the grade unless the hay is very weedy. Color in hay is caused by the amount of brown leaf surface, brown or bleached heads, and bleached and off-colored stems. It has been found that there is a close relation between the time of cutting or stage of maturity of timothy hay, and the amount of color.

In the United States grades for timothy hay the maximum allowance of brown leaf surface for No. 1 timothy is 40 per cent, with 2 per cent of brown or bleached heads, and 5 per cent of bleached or off-colored stems. To prevent the color from exceeding these limits, it has been found that under normal conditions, the hay as cured by the average haymaker must be cut not later than when in full bloom. In some sections, and under certain conditions, it may be advisable to cut the hay even earlier.

There appears to be an idea prevalent among producers in some sections that early cut hay is more watery or laxative than hay that is ripe, but there is practically no accurate data on this subject. Agricultural experiment stations have found, however, that the sooner hay is cut after coming into full bloom, the more total digestible nutrients it will contain. This earlier cut hay also will be palatable and relished by stock.

Since hay cut at this time is more nutritious, and will also be of a higher commercial grade than late cut hay, producers are urged to cut their hay at the proper time unless it is imperative that more important work must be done on other crops.

Weather Is Important Factor.

Weather is also an important factor in producing good hay. Best quality hay is often almost ruined by rain. While hay which has been stained by rains or heavy dew may often be fed on the farms to advantage, it is discounted in the markets. Producers should keep this damaged hay separate from the better hay, as it is impossible to separate it later when baling or marketing. A little damaged hay mixed with the good frequently causes the buyer to refuse to take the better hay except at a very heavy discount. Only choice qualities of hay bring the higher prices, therefore producers should harvest their hay properly.

The suggestions recommended by the Department of Agriculture are summarized as follows:

1. Start cutting your timothy hay as soon as possible after the meadow reaches early or first full bloom.
2. Cure in the manner that will best preserve the color and quality of the hay.
3. If any hay becomes stained or damaged from rain or too long exposure to the sun, store apart from the good hay; also keep weedy hay separate from the clean hay.

Good Grain Mixture to Feed to Growing Calves

At the time calves are changed from whole to skim milk, they are ready to begin eating small amounts of grain, which should be placed before them in small feeding boxes. Or if they are tied in stanchions for milk feeding, the grain can be put in the manger before they are released. Just a very small handful is all the calf will take at first, and only as much should be fed as the animal will clean up.

Ground corn is very palatable, and it can be fed alone or in combination with other grains, such as ground oats, bran, and some oil meal. It sometimes helps to get the calf started on grain by putting a small amount on its tongue and muzzle when the empty milk pail is taken away. This also puts a stop to sucking the ears of the calf in the next tie. After the young animal's appetite for grain has increased, the corn and oats can be fed whole, but many feeders continue to let them have ground grain.

A good grain mixture to feed to growing calves is made up of 500 pounds of ground corn, 300 pounds ground or whole oats, and 100 pounds linseed oil meal.

Hay can also be placed before the calves at this time in a small rack. Clover hay, mixed clover and timothy, or alfalfa hay not too leafy, are all satisfactory.

An early start in grain and hay insures the proper development of the digestive organs of the young animal, and assists in promoting vigorous growth.—M. H. Fohrman, Superintendent of Official Testing, University Farm, St. Paul.

"Surely at your age," said Mrs. Hignett, disapprovingly, "you could be better occupied. Do you spend your whole time playing golf?"

"Oh, no. I hunt a bit and shoot a bit and I swim a good lot, and I still play football occasionally."

"I wonder your father does not insist on your doing some useful work."

"He is beginning to harp on the subject rather. I suppose I shall take a stab at it sooner or later. Father says I ought to get married, too."

"He is perfectly right."

"I suppose old Eustace will be getting hitched up one of these days?" said Sam.

Mrs. Hignett started violently.

"Why do you say that?"

"Eh?"

"What makes you say that?"

"Oh, well, he's a romantic sort of fellow. Writes poetry and all that."

"There is no likelihood of Eustace marrying. He is of a shy and retiring temperament and sees few women. He is almost a recluse."

Sam was aware of this and had frequently regretted it. He had always been fond of his cousin and in that half-amused and rather patronizing way in which men of thews and sinews are fond of the weaker brethren who run more to pallor and intellect; and he had always felt that if Eustace had not had to retire to Windles to spend his life with a woman whom from his earliest years he always considered the Empress of the Wash-outs might have been made of him. Both at school and at Oxford, Eustace had been—if not a sport—at least a decidedly cheery old bean. Sam remembered Eustace at school breaking gas globes with a slipper in a positively rollicking manner. He remembered him at Oxford playing up to him manfully at the piano on the occasion when he had done that imitation of Frank Tinney which had been such a bit at the Trinity smoker. Yes, Eustace had had the making of a pretty sound egg, and it was too bad that he had allowed his mother to coop him up down in the country miles away from anywhere.

Eustace is returning to England on Saturday," said Mrs. Hignett. She spoke a little wistfully. She had not been parted from her son since he had come down from Oxford; and she would have liked to keep him with her till the end of her lecturing tour. That, however, was out of the question.

It was imperative that while she was away, he should be at Windles. Nothing would have induced her to leave the place at the mercy of servants who might trample over the flower-beds, scratch the polished floors, and forget to cover up the canary at night. "He sails on the Atlantic."

"That's splendid," said Sam. "I'm sailing on the Atlantic myself. I'll go down to the office and see if we can't have a stateroom together. But where is he going to live when he gets to England?"

"Where is he going to live? Why, at Windles, of course. Where else?"

"But I thought you were letting Windles for the summer?"

Mrs. Hignett stared.

"Letting Windles!" She spoke as one might address a lunatic. "What one might address a lunatic."

"Letting Windles!" She spoke as one might address a lunatic.

put that extraordinary idea into your head?"

"I thought father said something about your letting the place to some American?"

"Nothing of the kind!"

It seemed to Sam that his aunt spoke somewhat vehemently, even snappishly, in correcting what was a perfectly natural mistake. He could not know that the subject of letting Windles for the summer was one which had long since begun to infuriate Mrs. Hignett. People had certainly asked to let Windles. In fact people had pestered her. There was a rich fat man, an American named Bennett, whom she had met just before sailing at her brother's house in London. Invited down to Windles for the day, Mr. Bennett had fallen in love with the place and had begged her to name her own price. Not content with this, he had pursued her with his pleadings by means of the wireless telegraph while she was on the ocean, and had not given up the struggle even when she reached New York. He had egged on a friend of his, a Mr. Mortimer, to continue the persecution in that city. No wonder, then, that Sam's allusion to the affair had caused the authoress of "The Spreading Light" momentarily to lose her customary calm.

"Nothing will induce me ever to let Windles," she said with finality, and rose significantly. Sam, perceiving that the audience was at an end—and glad of it—went to bed.

"Well, I think I'll be going down and seeing about that stateroom," he said. "Certainly. I am a little busy just now, preparing notes for my next lecture."

"Of course, yes. Mustn't interrupt you. I suppose you're having a great time, gassing away—I mean—well, good-by!"

"Good-by!"

Mrs. Hignett, frowning, for the interview had been not only disturbed that equable frame of mind which is so vital to the preparation of lectures on theosophy, sat down at the writing-table and began to go through the notes which she had made overnight. She had hardly succeeded in concentrating herself when the door opened to admit the daughter of Eria once more.

"Ma'am, there was a gentleman."

"This is intolerable!" cried Mrs. Hignett. "Did you tell him that I was busy?"

"I did not. I loosed him into the dining-room."

"Is he a reporter from one of the newspapers?"

"He is not. He has spats and a tall-shaped hat. His name is Bream Mortimer."

"Bream Mortimer?"

"Yes, ma'am. He handed me a bit of a kyard, but I dropped it, being sloppy from the dishes."

Mrs. Hignett strode to the door with a forbidding expression. This, as she had justly remarked, was intolerable. She remembered Bream Mortimer. He was the son of the Mr. Mortimer who was the friend of the Mr. Bennett who wanted Windles. This visit could only have to do with the subject of Windles, and she went into the dining-room in a state of cold fury, determined to squash the Mortimer family once and for all.

Bream Mortimer was tall and thin. He had small, bright eyes and a sharply curving nose. He looked much more like a parrot than most parrots do. It gave strangers a momentary shock of surprise when they saw Bream Mortimer in restaurants eating roast beef. They had the feeling that he would have preferred sunflower seeds.

Bankers Take Outing

FREDERICK.—The annual outing of the Farmers and Mechanics National Bank directors, officials and employees and their families was held recently at Sauble's Inn, Taneytown. The trip was made by automobile, the party leaving from the bank building about 4:30 o'clock. Dinner was served at the Inn. Following a number of short addresses were made, in which the progress of the bank was outlined and the splendid cooperation between employees and officials was stressed. Glenn O. Garber acted as toastmaster, and those who made talks were James H. Harris, president; F. L. Stoner, vice president; C. A. Gilson, cashier, R. E. Delaplaine and Wm. E. Filler. During the evening the following songs were rendered by the Farmers and Mechanics Bank quartet: "Drink to me Only With Thine Eyes," "Catas-trophe," "Kentucky Babe," "Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean." The members of the quartet are first tenor, James H. Harris; second tenor, R. Ames Hendrickson; first base, A. B. Colmus; second base, Charles B. T. Hendrickson.

Institute Is Enlarged

FREDERICK.—Attesting the rapid growth of St. John's Literary Institute during recent years, it has been found necessary to erect a portable building at the rear of the school. The three story building which has been used was found totally inadequate this year to meet the requirements of the growing school. There are 193 pupils now enrolled and this number will likely be increased to over 200 by the first of the week when new students are expected to register. This is the largest number of students ever enrolled in a single

AN EARTHQUAKE
Upon a restless world we build
And boast our strong foundation sure.
Our palaces, with treasures filled,
Through generations shall endure.
Nor fire nor stream can bring them
low.

These are the works of man,
Built to conquer every foe—
And so they dreamed in old Japan.

Yet when impatient grows the world
And seeks to shift its weight of care,
The proudest man-made thing is hurled
Into the darkness of despair.

In but the twinkling of an eye
Laughter is changed to dreadful cries;
Down come the temples from the sky.

Vain is the wisdom of the wise.
Glory and pomp are swept aside,
Riches are stripped of shining
worth,
High place is naked of its pride
And desolation sweeps the earth.

If but the shoulders of the land
Shall make a little turn or twist,
Nothing that man has built can stand,
Nothing he boasts of can exist.

Islands are swallowed by the sea,
Cities in awful ruin lie,
Hurt strikes where safety used to be,
People in countless numbers die.

Of all the terrors man must face
Against his dream of high success,
The future glory of his race,

Women to Have Booth

FREDERICK.—An eating booth will be conducted at the Fair this year by members of the rural women's clubs of the county. The plan to have the women manage such a booth is an innovation in the work of the clubs which is expected to prove successful. A meeting of the committee was held at the county demonstrator's office in the court house to formulate plans for the Fair work. It has been decided that each club shall have a separate exhibit in the women's building. The eating booth will be the enterprise of the clubs jointly and committees were appointed to arrange for securing food, providing for service and looking after other details. Sandwiches, cake, candy, ice cream, coffee and milk will be served. The booth will be immediately opposite the exhibits.

Negro Shoots Neighbor

HANOVER.—Following hard upon the disappearance of Mrs. Luther Lepo, a Hanover woman, at Spring Grove last week, the latter borough was treated to another sensational occurrence late Saturday night when provoked with anger because of the conduct of a party of men in a room adjoining that occupied by himself and wife, LeRoy Turner, colored, fired three shots through a board partition and killed Oscar Green, also colored. The shooting occurred in a workmen's shack at Pittinger's stone quarry, along the Pennsylvania railroad, about one-half mile west of Spring Grove, at about 11:30 o'clock. Turner gave himself up to Constable Harry Shue, at Spring Grove, Sunday morning. He was taken to York and committed to the York county jail on proper papers executed by Alderman John I. Keech, Eighth ward, York.

Thieves Enter Dime Store

YORK.—Two yeggmen between 8 and 9 o'clock Sunday morning blew the safe in Woolworth's five and ten cent store, West Market street, York, and escaped with about $1,000 in change, concealed in a thirty-pound candy bucket. A. B. Hoover, manager of the store, who entered the building as the yeggmen were leaving, was held up at the point of a revolver and forced to retreat through a rear door while the bandits made good their escape through a door in the front of the store. The lock on the front door of Grant's twenty-five-cent store, which adjoins the Woolworth store, was also forced during the night. As far as can be learned, the thieves did not enter the Grant store. Reports that attempts were also made to force a door at Motter's garage, Beaver street and Mason avenue, and the rear door at Jack Silverman's clothing store, Market and Beaver streets, were also received by the police.

Tells of Japan Disaster

HANOVER.—The first letter from the Rev. I. G. After assuring his father of the safety of himself and family, the clergyman describes in graphic words his own experience during the quake and first-hand reports from survivors of the stricken areas. The Rev. Mr. Nace writes from Nojiri Lake.

WAYNESBORO.—A bad automobile accident occurred Saturday at Zullinger when the touring car of Simon Wiener and driven by his daughter, Miss Miriam Wiener, collided with the touring car of Joseph Hade and driven by Mr. Hade himself. Mrs. Byrl Hammer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lashley, East Third street, who was riding with Miss Wiener was cut on the face by flying glass when the windshield was broken and also received a fracture in her left wrist when she was thrown from the car. Miss Wiener was also thrown from the car, but escaped injury. Mrs.

Klan Reported Active

WAYNESBORO.—A report is current that the Ku Klux Klan has been active in this section again. According to the report the masked figures apprehended two young couples, their age being responsible for the act, one night recently on a road near Waynesboro and took them to Lesher's woods where they put their stamps on the girls' faces and clipped the boys' hair. The young people were then let go and warned to stay closer to their homes in the future.

Washington

Two Drunken Drivers Held

HAGERSTOWN.—Two men charged with operating motor vehicles while under the influence of liquor were arrested over the week-end and are being held in jail for hearings in the Police Court. The first man arrested was G. D. Click. He is said to have called at Police Headquarters and reported the theft of his automobile Saturday night. He is said to have been under the influence of liquor at the time and a subsequent investigation revealed that he had driven the car from Clearspring to this city and then secured a negro to drive him. He left the machine in the care of his new found chauffeur and returned to find it missing. The chauffeur, George W. Hughes, was arrested yesterday by Patrolman Scales. The arrest took place after he is said to have driven the car into a telephone pole.

Woman Will Not Recover

HAGERSTOWN.—Miss Carrie Claggett, 45, who lay, paralyzed and unconscious, in an open field near her home near Indian Springs throughout last Thursday night, guarded by her big shepherd dog, Jack, will never recover, was the belief of her physician, Dr. F. W. Rich, of Clearspring. Miss Claggett had not regained consciousness up to a late hour Sunday night. Early Saturday she showed enough improvement to warrant the belief that she might recover. Her pulse was normal. During Saturday night she took a turn for the worse, however, and since then has hung between life and death.

Thieves Ransack Home

HAGERSTOWN.—Breaking into the home of John W. Cable, Chewsville, Saturday evening, thieves ransacked the house and obtained jewelry and other goods valued at several hundred dollars. The thieves secured the following loot: One silver cigarette case, 1 heavy solid gold chain, 1 diamond stick-pin, 1 greenstone snake with pin, 1 Smith and Wesson revolver, 2 knives, 1 Masonic emblem, 1 solid gold cuff links; 1 solid gold ladies' watch; 1 silver mesh bag, 1 gold child's bracelet, 1 black ribbon bracelet and 1 radium face Ingersoll watch.

Relief Fund Show

HAGERSTOWN.—A benefit moving picture program was given at the Maryland Theatre to a capacity audience for the Japanese Relief Fund. The first moving pictures to arrive in this city depicting the area laid waste by the recent earthquake in Japan were shown. A feature picture was also presented.

FARMERS DAY

Plans for Farmers Day in Gettysburg October 18 were enthusiastically outlined at a meeting of the general committees last evening, and merchants and citizens of Gettysburg in general ought to enter into the spirit of the movement with the same keen interest as those who volunteered to carry out the arrangements launched upon their work.

It is another valuable link in the chain of activities designed to bring Adams county farmers and business people closer together for the common good. The neighborly feeling which had its wonderful expression in the get-together outing on M. E. Knouse's farm at Brysonia recently, arranged by the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce, when 1,500 farm folk bob-nobbed with town people and exchanged opinions and ideas, will have another opportunity to make itself felt in this event which is to be made a real attraction to the rural population.

A series of very successful fairs has been held in the several communities throughout the county and a great amount of unselfish effort, labor and cooperation is necessary if Farmers Day in Gettysburg is to eclipse all the others. But it can be done and the fine spirit displayed at the committee meeting indicates that it will be done.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear daughter, Myrtle Leatherman, who died October 2, 1921. God needed one more angel child. Amidst his shining band, And so He bent with loving smiles And clasped her darling hand. Dear Myrtle, you are sleeping, In that silent grave, But we are all still weeping. When evening shades gather, Then we sit and talk of you. In our hearts there comes a longing, If you only could come home. But God sent an angel and took you up to heaven. By her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Leatherman. Peacefully free from all sorrow and suffering. Joyously waiting where the weary find rest, Until that great day when we all shall meet. By her sister, Esther.

TELEPHONE COMPANY
SPENDING $30,000,000Largest Construction Program
Ever Attempted in Penna.

The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania is running a series of advertisements in which interesting figures are given relative to the enormous construction program the company has planned for this year.

The constant demand for telephones has brought about the largest telephone construction program ever attempted in one year. At the beginning of this year the company planned to spend $25,000,000 for new facilities in Pennsylvania. But the rapidly increasing demand for telephones has made it necessary for the company to increase the amount to $30,000,000.

New buildings, together with large additions to other buildings, is one phase of the program. Ten millions of dollars' worth of new switchboards and 76,000 new telephones are to be installed. Half a million miles of wire, which is enough to reach the moon and back again with enough left over to wrap around the earth, will be used.

All this equipment is being added to meet the demand for telephone service in Pennsylvania. These figures show the great extent to which the Bell System in this State is growing.

MANY LEAVE TELEPHONE
RECEIVERS OFF HOOKSIn Nine Months More Than 250,000 People Forgot to Replace Them.

During the first nine months of 1923, more than a quarter of a million receivers were left off the hooks by telephone subscribers in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

There are many ways in which telephone users are guilty of this negligence, but in each case the result is the same.

On receiving no response to her "Number, please?" the operator reports the line out of order. The "Howler" is then placed on the line at the central office end. This is a device which sends a shrill, whistling sound through the telephone of which the receiver has been left off the hook. If someone hears the noise and replaces the receiver the error is remedied.

If the howler fails to attract attention, service is discontinued from the telephone in order to put out the light before the operator. Then a repairman is sent to correct the error by placing the receiver on the hook or asking the subscriber to do so.

An average of twenty minutes is required to correct each case. Thus approximately 84,000 hours of telephone service were lost by these subscribers because they forgot to hang up their receivers.

By adding flavoring to the thick London fogs they could put in tubes and sell for tooth paste.

Perhaps, in London barber shops, they just spread a little thick fog on for shaving lather.

It would be getting too foolish to say London fogs are so heavy they can't see the French plans.

RHEUMATIC AGONY

NOW EASILY ENDED

It does not matter to me whether you are disabled with cursed rheumatism or have only occasional twinges, I know that Allenhu, my own discovery, will stop the agony, do away with the gnawing pains and reduce the swollen joints, says Mr. Allen. I know it will dissolve the uric acid deposits that have become deeply imbedded in joints and muscles and quickly drive every trace of rheumatism from your body. I know this because I was crippled for years and many times was unable to work, and Allenhu made a well, robust, healthy man of me.

I know because since I cured myself hundreds have taken Allenhu and speedily rid themselves of this agonizing disease.

No matter how severe your case, I urge you to put your faith in the prescription that it took me years to perfect—a prescription that made a new man of me after doctors tried and failed.

Allenhu is no laggard; it starts right in at once; it gets into the blood, searches out the poisonous uric acid deposit and in two days starts to drive the concentrated impurities that cause rheumatism, out of the blood through the natural channels.

Through the columns of this newspaper, I authorize every druggist to guarantee one full pint bottle in every instance.

Sold at Peoples Drug Store.

COLLEGE MEN LIKE EASE IN CLOTHES

Copyright 1923 Hart Schaffner & Marx

"The college men are wearing old men's clothes, and the old men are wearing young men's styles" said a clothing merchant in one of the big eastern college towns recently.

He had observed the recent changes in style tendencies; he had found that both college men and the middle aged men were demanding clothes very different from what they were wearing a few seasons ago, but he was wrong in two important particulars.

First, the college men aren't wearing "old men's clothes," and Second, there aren't any "old men's clothes" any more, because elderly men have broken away from tradition and now dare to wear the clothes they like best; that best set off their good points.

The clothes many college men are choosing for fall are easy fitting models with coats easily draped, buttons spaced wide apart, and wide, straight-hanging trousers. The three button models, as shown above, seem to have the call, but there are indications that the two-button style will have a big vogue, and that the four-button coat has had its day.

But these college clothes, though they have drifted far from the trim, body-tracing lines young men almost universally wore for so long, are just as far from the stiff, loose coats that elderly men used to wear.

They are new; something evolved to meet the college man's demand for originality.
